

Sunny Bank Farm: Artistic Impressions

“Sunny Bank Farm” by William Heaton Cooper watercolour (c1950)

William Heaton Cooper, son of Alfred Heaton Cooper, was born at Coniston, Oct. 1903. William followed his father as a landscape artist. He studied at the Royal Academy School, London. Elected 1953 to membership of the R.I. of British Watercolourists, he was for 11 years president of the Lake Artists Society.

William took over the Ambleside studio which his father had built. His painting continued to improve, even eclipsing his father’s reputation. In 1938 he moved the studio to Grasmere. In the same year he met the sculptress, Ophelia Gordon Bell, who became his wife. William died in 1995 and is buried in Grasmere.

“Sunny Bank” by Rory Browne mixed media (2006)

A graduate from the Chelsea School of Art in 1988, Rory Browne has exhibited widely, both in mixed and solo shows. He has contributed to the Royal Academy Summer Exhibition and his work is featured in many public and private collections both here in the UK and abroad.

Rory lives in Harpenden, Hertfordshire with his wife and three sons. He is currently Head of Art at the St George’s School, Harpenden.

By kind permission of both William Heaton Cooper’s estate (who own and run the Heaton Cooper Studio in Grasmere) and Rory Browne (himself a regular guest at Sunny Bank Farm) we are able to make available high definition (Giclée) prints on top quality paper to guests and their friends. The unmounted prints may be ordered using the Order Form.
